

Shugella Weaver-Thomas Bio

A Native of Southern California, Shugella has a wealth of experience in various social, professional and political arenas. She has over thirty years of experience in the Non-Profit Sector as an Executive, Management and Coaching Consultant.

Her primary skill set is offering executive coaching to non-profit organization in a method of directing, instructing and training specifically in therapeutic residential treatment and working with at-risk youth, abused, neglected, abandoned dependents and Juvenile court appointed minors and youth adults. The training is also extended to staff and Residential care owners, executive directors and administrators, with the aim to achieve some goal or develop specific skills.

Additional professional experience includes but it not limited to Transitional and Independent Living Residential Program, Supervision of clinical personnel, program directors, managers and direct care staff.

Shugella's goal is to provide the best life coaching possible to enhance and improve the lives of others and help them Pursue their God-given Gifts, Visions and Dreams.